TWO NEBRASKA STUDENTS NAMED AP SCHOLARS

Two students were recently named AP Scholars for their outstanding performance on the 2016 College Board's advanced placement exams.

Bridget Mizener, a Westside High School student, and Raymond Thai, of Millard North High School, were among 108 students nationwide to receive this recognition.

Both Nebraska students were chosen for having scores of 3 or higher on the greatest number of AP exams and the highest average scores — 3.5 or higher on a 5-point scale — on all exams taken.

The College Board's AP program provides students the opportunity to take rigorous college-level courses, and earn college credit, while still in high school.

The awards are presented annually to one male student and one female student from each state and the District of Columbia.

In 2016, 4.7 million exams were administered to 2.6 million students at 22,000 high schools across the country. Students received 3 or higher on nearly 60 percent of these exams, potentially qualifying them for college credit and/or advanced placement at colleges and universities worldwide.
